A vivacious woman's face can frequently speak in more eloquent language than any known to the tongue of man. It can invite or repel, sigh or smile, be meek or haughty, bear a passion to tatters or humbly seek forgiveness. It can also tell the story of health. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease in a womanly way sits in sorrow and dejection while her healthy sisters enjoy themselves. She may be naturally beautiful, naturally attractive, naturally interesting and animated and witty, but the demon of ill health is gnawing at the very vitals of her womanly nature, and she soon becomes a withered wall flower in comparison with her brighter and more healthy sisters. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in womanhood and motherhood. It tones and builds up the shattered nerves. It restores the glow of health to the pallid cheek. It gives springiness and trip to the carriage. It makes the eyes sparkle with returning vivacity. It imparts animation to the mien and gestures. The fan that long lay listless and idle in the lap of an invalid again speaks the eloquent language of a healthy, happy woman. Thousands of women have testified to the marvelous merits of this wonderful medicine.

For several years I suffered with prolapsus of the uterus, writes Miss A. Lee Schuler, Box 12, Rodney, Jefferson Co., Miss. "Our family physician treated me for kidney trouble, and everything else but the right thing. I grew worse and worse. My body was emaciated, hands and feet clammy and cold, stomach weak, with great palpitation of the heart. I would suffer with nausea all night. I began taking your Favorite Prescription, and I began to prove right away. I have taken three bottles and now I am very nearly well and am very happy and thankful to you."

Keep your head up and your bowels open. The "Golden Medical Discovery" will put steel in your backbone, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation.

Custer's Indian Attack.
The late Charles Osborn, the New York broker, and General Custer were intimate friends, and Osborn annually visited the general at his camp on the plains. During one of the Indian campaigns he invited Osborn and a party of friends out to Kansas and, after giving them a buffalo hunt, arranged a novel experience in the way of an Indian scare. As Osborn was lying in his tent one night firing was heard at the outposts and the rapid riding of pickets. "Boots and saddles!" was the order in the disturbed atmosphere of the night, and Custer appeared to Osborn loaded with rifle, two revolvers, a saber and a sculping knife.

"Charles," he said in his quick, nervous way, "you must defend yourself. Sitting Bull and Men-in-Your-Boots, with Wiggle-Tail-Jim and Scalp-Lock-Skowhegan, are on us in force. I did not want to alarm you before, but the safety of my command is my first duty. Things look serious. If we don't meet again, God bless you!"
The broker fell on his knees. "Custer," he cried, "only get me out of this! I'll carry 1,000,000 shares of Western Union for you into the firm to get me home. Only save me!"
But Custer was gone, and the camp, by shrewd arrangement, burst into a blaze, and shots, oaths and warwhoops were intermixed until suddenly a painted object loomed on Osborn's sight, and something was flung into his face—a human scalp. He dropped to the ground, said the Lord's Prayer backward and sideways until the noise died away and there was exposed a lighted supper table with this explanation on a transparency:
"Osborn's treat!"—Chicago Record.

Got Even With Randolph.
One night when traveling through Virginia John Randolph stopped at an inn near the forks of two roads. The innkeeper was a fine old gentleman, and, knowing who his distinguished guest was, he endeavored during the evening to draw him into a conversation, but failed. But in the morning, when Mr. Randolph was ready to start, he called for his bill and paid it. The landlord, still anxious to have some conversation, tackled him again: "Which way are you traveling, Mr. Randolph?"
"Sir," said Mr. Randolph, with a look of displeasure.
"I asked," said the landlord, "which way you are traveling?"
"Have I paid you my bill?"
"Yes."
"Do I owe you anything more?"
"No."
"Well, I am going just where I please. Do you understand?"
"Yes."
The landlord by this time got somewhat excited, and Mr. Randolph drove off. But to the landlord's surprise in a few minutes he sent one of the servants to inquire which of the forks of the road to take. Mr. Randolph, still being within hearing distance, the landlord yelled at the top of his voice: "Mr. Randolph, you don't owe me one cent; take whichever road you please!"

Separate Towels For Children.
Two or more children should not be permitted to use the same towel. Each child should have a separate one and be taught to regard it as personal property. Towels may be bought with initials woven in them, which makes it easy for the owner to distinguish his own. Diseases of the eye and skin diseases are easily communicated by the indiscriminate use of the same towel by different persons. If carefulness in this matter be inculcated in childhood, it may save much suffering. —Ladies' Home Journal.

In Mexico everything and everybody pays a direct tax, from the street porter to the largest mercantile establishment, and the stamp tax for documents is equally lucrative.

STAGE FRIGHT FATAL

MANY CASES WHERE IT BROUGHT DEATH TO THE VICTIM.

The Affliction Is Not Confined to Beginners Before the Footlights, but Has Been Known to Attack Players of Experience.

"Of all the many ills to which theatrical flesh is heir," said an old physician who has a large clientele of actors, "the worst is stage fright. This is nothing less than a species of heart disease, induced by the nervous dread that one's performance may not be successful. This naturally attacks beginners more often than old staggers, and yet instances are by no means isolated where death has been brought about through its evils, even in the case of old timers.

"Perhaps, however, the most peculiar instance of all was that of the veteran performer who had gone through 30 years of stage work without experiencing this malady. One night, however, he confided to a fellow player that a quite unaccountable nervousness had suddenly taken hold of him and that he did not think he could ever act again.

"His comrade laughed at the notion and urged him to go on, as usual, but his astonishment may well be conceived when the poor old player went on the stage and, after making several vain efforts to speak, fell back and expired. The doctor who made the post mortem examination stated that death was due to failure of the heart's action, evidently induced by the presence of an attack of stage fright.

"Death is by no means an infrequent end to the trouble, and more than one case in my own practice has ended fatally. It is not always the person whose heart is already affected who suffers the most, either, for I recall one case some years ago where a young woman whose heart I knew to be perfectly normal made her professional debut in this city. While standing in the wings awaiting her first cue she was seized with an attack of stage fright and trembled violently.

"Not till she heard the line spoken which was her signal for entrance did she make any effort at recovery, and then, to the surprise of those who were trying to get her in shape, she braced up and went on the stage as though she had been on the boards for years. She went through her part mechanically and without apparent consciousness of her actions, but she played the scene better than she had done at rehearsal.

"At the close of her scene she came off the stage, staggered to her dressing room and sank unconscious to the floor. She never recovered from her coma, and an autopsy developed the fact that she had died of heart disease, though I had examined her shortly before and could find no trace of cardiac affection.

"Several standard authorities quote the case of a young English aspirant who came to the theater on the night of his debut in a state bordering on nervous prostration. He was braced up on brandy and given encouragement by those on the stage with him, but no sooner had he stepped upon the stage than he clapped his hand upon his heart and fell dead. The excitement had ruptured the valves of his heart, and he had ended his career as he was about to begin it.

"One curious case was told me not long ago by one of the physicians at Bloomingdale. A young man, a member of a college dramatic club, was brought there for treatment. He had been cast for a part in the spring production, and this extra study, added to the regular studies imposed by the collegiate course, caused something to give way. On the occasion of the dress rehearsal it was found that he could not remember a line of his part, and this so worried him that he broke down and was brought here.

"For several weeks he could not speak an intelligent sentence, and then suddenly his part came back to him, and he could go through it, cues and all, without a break. For another full week he kept going through the lines of his part, and then developed a severe attack of brain fever, from which he came out perfectly rational, but, oddly enough, with absolutely no memory of the lines of the play in question.

"The excitement caused by stage fright is a most curious thing, and did the opportunity present, I should like to write a treatise on the subject, for it is a fascinating one, but I am kept too busy patching up the troubles that exist to write of the troubles which have existed."—New York Telegraph.

Why Women Fight Seasickness.

"Are women more subject to seasickness than men?"
An Atlantic captain replies: "Yes; but, on the other hand, they stand it better. A woman struggles up to the point of despair against the what I might call the impropriety of the thing. She is not so much tortured by the pangs as she is worried by the prospect of becoming disheveled, haggard and dragged. She fights against it to the last and keeps up appearances as long as she can hold up her head."

What Broke Him Up.

"What broke him up in business?"
"Slow collections."
"I thought he sold goods for cash only."
"He did. It was the firms he owed that had the trouble in making the collections, and they closed him out."—Chicago Tribune.

THE FRAUDS OF THE MONEY POWER.

Public impression largely has been and is that the object of the money power in demonetizing silver is to correct and simplify the currency and make it more in accord with business ideas. The view given is calculated to deceive the unwary and place the opposition to its demonetization in a defensive position.

Had the contention of the money power been presented to the people in a frank way before a villainous attack was made on silver coinage it would have had at least the appearance of honesty, but the purpose of the money power being evil, it was enshrouded in the darkness of fraud, as evil chooses darkness rather than light for the accomplishment of its purpose.

The burglar or housebreaker is not seen at his work in open day, as darkness is suited to the work in which he is engaged, for which cause he chooses darkness rather than light because his deeds are evil and against the rights of others, and for a like reason the money power employed like conditions to accomplish its villainous, and from the time of the first deed against the rights of the people it has continued in darkness in all of its fraudulent work.

The fraud committed against the people when Samuel J. Tilden was elected president was the next villainy that the money power engaged in. The feeling of the people then identified with the Republican party was such that its work was for a time covered from light through the intensity of feeling then existing, because of the war which was then comparatively recent. The purpose of the money power then being to hold through fraud that which it had gained by fraudulent work in Congress, when silver was demonetized; which fraud against Tilden was more wicked than the first fraud because it was a direct attack upon the government fabric of the country.

If Tilden had succeeded to the position to which the people elected him he would have signed a law placing the coinage of the country where it had been rightfully under the constitution preceding the demonetization fraud.

Hayes, the fraudulent occupant of Tilden's office, vetoed the bill that was passed by Congress during the presidential term he occupied, which deed repaid the money power for its participation in the fraud.

The next attempted fraud was when Cleveland was elected the first time to the presidential office. He had been sheriff of Buffalo, New York, and had been made governor of that State but had not been, when elected president, initiated into the mysteries of the money power and was for that reason a fit subject to be defrauded, as it was then supposed by the money power that he was patriotic and honest.

The silver question was allowed to sleep the sleep of death, as supposed, during his first term in office, and after initiation into the mysteries of the money power and four years training in the city of New York, he was selected by the money interest to succeed Harrison, but the object of his selection was kept from his object and from the people. The real purpose of his selection was to carry forward upon the Democratic party and the people a fraud that would demoralize the Democracy or take them into the goldbug camp, both of which purposes were defeated by old-line Democrats who are dyed-in-the-wool patriots.

The men who in boyhood spent their winter evenings around the hearth fire talking and hearing talked over the deeds of the revolutionary fathers, would not be fooled or duped by the money power, and the new Democracy, with William Jennings Bryan at its head, was launched into the political world, and the goldbug element retired to devise more fraud and carry it into effect, which was the fraudulent defeat of Bryan by the money power and the election of McKinley by means of the fraudulent use of money and by intimidation of the business interests of the country through threats, and the business interests in turn through threats against those in their employment.

When all these would not carry through the fraud planned by the money power, money, its never-failing resource, was employed to the extent of many millions to defraud the nation and the people.

BRITISH-BOER WAR.

News from Natal was not on the list yesterday for some unexplained reason, but the probable cause is that the Boers have surrounded Ladysmith and cut off communication with the outside world. The railroad running south from the town was open when the last account of the situation was given, but it is evident that the Boers have made a line on the south, and by so doing have cut off the means for sending dispatches.

The situation has caused gloom over the British Empire, and more particularly in Great Britain and London. The war office was besieged with the friends of those who are in the army, but no news could be furnished to any of the callers. The Prince of Wales sent his Secretary to the War office, who returned to the Prince without news upon the present situation of affairs in Natal. Much desecration of opinion is given upon the course of the government. General Walseley charges that he requested the government to send an army to Natal in July last, but was overruled in his request by Lord Landsdowne, Secretary of War, who threatens to resign because of the pressure caused by his refusal.

The loss of the men taken prisoners is severely felt by the British, who were light-hearted over the war till the Boers made such unexpected showing in valor and generalship.

HE KNEW HUMAN NATURE.

And Had No Trouble in Disposing of the Old Stock.

In Dearborn street is a haberdasher—time was when they answered to a less formidable name—who counts a genius among his employees. This "favored of fortune" is a youth who once clerked in a general store in the country, and his present proprietor wonders if there are any more like him running at large in the provinces.

There had been a stock of cheap collars and cuffs on the shelves for years. Once in awhile, usually just before invoicing, these articles had been brought down, carefully dusted, tied with new baby ribbon, arranged in orderly fashion in the window and marked "9 cents" for the cuffs, "5 cents" for the collars. But patrons would none of them. Occasionally a man would come along and toss them over, attracted by the price, but that was all. They would not sell.

The country youth waited till the first hard rain. Then he took an armful of the goods and dipped them carefully in a pail of water so that about half of each article was moistened. Then he dried them in the sun at the back door and next morning heaped them in the window with this marking:

Ruined by the Rain.
Collars, 10 Cents.
Cuffs, 20 Cents.

And they went before noon. It was all the genius from the country could do to get subsequent armfuls soaked and dried fast enough to supply the demand.—Chicago Post.

Last fall I strained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50 cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. BABCOCK, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by W. Pinniger.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson Druggist.

Weather Forecast.

Furnished by the Chief of the Weather Bureau, under direction of the Secretary of Agriculture.
CARSON CITY, November 1.—To JOURNAL, Reno:
THURSDAY.—Fair; stationary temperature.

ADAPTABILITY OF THE BLACK WALNUT TREE
The Soil and Climate of the Sagebrush State—Useful and Ornamental.

In the garden of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hunter on Fourth street are evidences that the soil and climate of Nevada are capable of greater things than the tiller of the soil has yet required of them.

Mrs. Hunter showed a JOURNAL reporter yesterday some of the contents of this garden. Peaches and plums could hardly be called staple products of this State, and yet here in Reno are a number of thrifty trees which annually bear luscious fruit of these varieties. In quality, Mrs. Hunter says, they surpass what we pay the railroad company good round prices to haul from California orchards.

There are two black walnut trees in this garden. One is a seedling fourteen years old, and the other was transplanted eight years ago. Last year it bore for the first time, yielding half a bushel of nuts. This season the crop was doubled.

There is no doubt but the black walnut would thrive almost everywhere in the State, if planted along irrigation ditches.

The nuts would yield quite an income in about ten or twelve years, and even if frost would not permit of its bearing, it would be valuable for fuel purposes and be an ornament to the farm on which it is grown.

Announcement.

I have just received a complete line of working and dress shirts of the latest patterns and styles, which I will sell at bedrock prices. I wish to call particular attention to a working shirt I am handling. It is undoubtedly the best working shirt that was ever sold on the Coast for the money. Call and examine the same.

I have all the latest patterns in golf and negligee shirts, in silks and madras cloths.

I am pleased to announce that I have secured the agency of the Wheeler overalls, famous on this Coast as being the best fitting and most durable overalls on the market. It is riveted, triple-sewed and made of the heaviest and best denim. Try a pair and be convinced.

Building Boom.

There are more houses in course of construction in Reno at present than there have been for a long time past. If this pleasant weather continues until Christmas there will be homes for a hundred or more additional people in this rapidly growing city.

Nearly all the new dwellings are not only commodious and well built structures, but in architectural design they possess beauty as well as utility. Notwithstanding this number of new houses the old ones are about all tenanted, evidencing considerable increase in population.

The New Name.

The firm of W. T. Hitt Company passed out of existence yesterday and the firm of J. R. Bradley Company was incorporated in its stead. Following are the officers of the new company: J. R. Bradley, president; G. F. Turritt, vice president; J. H. Clemons, secretary; Bank of Nevada, treasurer. The firm will conduct the hardware and grocery store on Plaza street and the Syracuse creamery on Sierra street. The members of this company are bustling business men and the JOURNAL prophesies success for their venture.

Building Notes.

Work on the engine house is progressing rapidly and contractor Holesworth may yet be able to have the building completed by the dawn of the new year. The first floor joists are framed and the brick work has been begun.

Mr. Holesworth is putting up a cottage on Fourth street for Wm. Copper-smith. The building which occupied the site has been moved to a vacant lot a block west.

DUST AND BULLION FROM OLINGHOUSE

What the Little Camp has Produced in the Past Few Months.

Olinghouse gulch was rather quiet this season. Seven of the quartz claims were tied up on a bond and, while development work went on after a fashion, they produced little bullion.

The placers were little worked, owing to the shortage of water. At the Slip mill the following runs were made since June 1st:

Ten and one-half tons, Hutchinson, $105; 8½ tons, Slip, $150; 35 tons, No. 2, $280; 108 tons, Cabin, $1,400.

Proctor Mill: Five tons, Butte, $32.50; 23 tons, Ora, $310.50.

Thus the total output from quartz was 185 tons, yielding $2,568. Adding the yield from the placers, which was not under $2,500, the returns for the little work done will reach nearly $5,000.

The Slip mill has begun stamping a run of 15 tons from the Forlorn Hope mine, which is largely specimen rock and will work about $100 a ton.

As soon as the rains begin the placer mines will be actively worked.

The time that the bonds on a number of quartz propositions expire is near at hand, and as a purchase will probably be made, great activity in this promising camp may be looked for.

Would Not Suffer so Again for Fifty Times Its Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. WILSON, Liverman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by W. Pinniger.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. B. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it, even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Nevada vs. Stanford.

On Saturday, November 11th, the University of Nevada football team will line up against the Stanford varsity eleven on the Palo Alto gridiron. The California team is probably stronger this year than ever before, it being eager to redeem the laurels snatched away by Berkeley last fall. Our boys will go against the best eleven west of the Rockies. They may not win—that would be almost too much to hope for—but they will make a showing that they will not be ashamed of.

Two "Chinamen" Suffer.

Shorty, the bootblack, fell into the hands of prank players Tuesday night and received a lovely coat of tar and cabbage leaves, the latter in lieu of feathers.

Some boys were engaged in swiping W. O. H. Martin's gate the same evening, when they were discovered by the owner of the property, who dispatched a Chinese servant to recover the stolen article. The Celestial did not get the gate, but he did obtain a scuse into the icy waters of the Truckee river.

PLEA FOR THE CODFISH.

A Chef Who Says This Fish Is Not Appreciated at His Real Worth.

"If codfish cost a dollar a pound,"
said the chef, "it would be more universally beloved. I tell you, it is the best dinner fish known. I have tried the whitefish all over the world, but the codfish is king of them all and is not appreciated at his real worth.
Cook him in any way you like and he is delicious. Even the dried codfish, picked up and served in cream for breakfast, is a fine dish. Put him in a bag, sew him up tightly, and let him boil, or bake him carefully, well stuffed, and he is delicious.

"Let me tell you that when you make fish cakes you should not grow on the fish with potato. Put as little potato or other substance in the cakes as possible, and, if you want them as fine as they can be made, wrap them in a blanket of eggs, and do not be sparing of the egg. You can make a tasty dish of codfish cakes if you will follow my advice. Fish cakes are considered a very democratic dish, of course, but my patron, who pays me a large salary, is as democratic as he used to be in his younger days. When he sends down to me an order for fish cakes for the next morning's breakfast, he says he wants Meschutt's fish cakes, with egg. That is the order, and he is thinking of his younger life
when, as he once told me, in a basement on Broadway he used to get the finest butter cakes and fish cakes he ever tasted, 'excepting yours, chef,' he adds always. But I know that dimes in those days were as $1.00
bills are to him now and his appetite was keener and more appreciative."— New York Sun.

SAUCY, BUT SELF RELIANT.

Such Is the Typical East Side Girl of New York City.

"The typical east side girl of New York," writes Charles T. Brodhead in The Ladies' Home Journal, "is simply a product of her environment. She is surrounded by the good, bad and indifferent. She is in an atmosphere in which no girl should be reared. Her eyes and ears are closed to many disagreeable things around her. And she shuts them simply because she does not care to see and hear. Yet the east side girl is no saint. Far from it. The typical girl of that section is self reliant, saucy, impertinent, slangy, quick tempered, ready to fight with the tongue, and even with fists if necessary. She will dance all night and work all day, repeat it three or four times a week, then declare she isn't tired and look bright and fresh all the while. She will upbraid her mother, whom she calls 'me ole woman,' and abuse her father, referred to by her as 'me ole man,' cuff the ears of her younger brothers; have a hair pulling match with a sister; yet if any one should dare utter a word derogatory to the members of her family, 'Miss East Side' would go at them like a wildcat.
She flirts outrageously with motormen,
conductors and the like and will laugh derisively at or slap the face of the well dressed man who presumes to become acquainted with her on the street; remain night after night at the bedside of a girl friend who is ill and follow a begging cripple half a block to give her last cent for charity."

Evarts' Pass.

William M. Evarts, secretary of state under President Hayes, made perhaps his best and his worst puns from railway platforms while traveling with the presidential party.

They had ascended Mount Washington by the steep cable road, and other tourists, gathered there from all parts of the country, called for a speech.
"We are not strangers," said Mr.
Evarts genially. "We have all been born and brought up here."

At another time, when traveling through Tennessee, Mr. Evarts laid a wager with the young people of his party that he could make a pun upon each town through which they should pass. As they reached Chattanooga the crowd clamored for a speech. Mr.
Evarts pleaded that as the train would stop but a moment he could only make a few Chattanooga remarks!

The unexpected element which characterizes a pun was marked in all the wit of Rufus Choate. "I can't endure X," he once exclaimed of another famous Bostonian. "I should not care if I should never see him again." Then half remorsefully, "Well, I should not care if I should see him in a procession."

Making a Child Too Quiet.

Play is the proper and natural outlet for a child's thoughts. To restrain his motion is to drive back his living fancy into the recesses of his mind, and this results in his confusion and unhappiness. Some children who are forced to be still and passive when they are longing for action find relief in whispering over stories to themselves, but it is an unsatisfactory substitute for dramatic action. And it is also morally injurious, for the necessity of concealing one's ideas destroys after awhile the ability for fluent expression and brings about timidity and distrust of our friends.—Florence Hull Winterburn in Woman's Home Companion.

Advantages of Emerson.

Bertha—But isn't there a good deal of Emerson's writings that you do not understand, Uncle Charles?
Uncle Charles—Of course there is.
The great pleasure in reading Emerson is the opportunity it gives a man with a fertile imagination to think out meanings for profound passages.—Boston Transcript.

Queen of the Home.

"I thought you were going to break up housekeeping?"
"We did intend to, but the cook refused to leave."—Town Topics.

A Good Answer.

Ernest McGaffey, the poet, is accredited with a good bonnet. A lady said to him:
"Oh, Mr. McGaffey, I have just seen your wife for the first time since your marriage. But I had supposed that she was a taller woman. She seems shorter than when I saw her last."
"Certainly," replied the poet solemnly,
"she has married and settled down,
you know."—San Francisco Argonaut.
